

Choose one of the decision-making processes in which you engaged as a collective this week. Describe it briefly (2-3 sentences).

During the first meeting after reflecting on the first residency we came up with an idea to gather our skills in one collective piece which we would develop aside from our private works.

Collectively we started to develop the script and concept for the piece. Without any specific details topic with broad understanding on ecology we did the round of how we visually imagine the beginning of the story. We let our ideas and thoughts guide us without any specific contexts at first. With the brainstorming we marked the beginning point and tried to develop the scheme around that. We repeated the same structure to the rounds. We were asking questions, debating and discussing, our form of decision-making was structured chaos.
