During this week I learned that body politics is not a topic that coming and going, is a topic that stays. Archiving in the most weird places; skin/nails/hair bones/lips/nose/eyes - every part. An active storage that speaks by itself (for itself. A specific image that comes to my mind is the one with the open mouth ~~is~~ everywhere upon us. A mouth that trace the whole body. If we have different bodies and different needs are we able to listen them. Resonances of bodies (i) when being together and sharing a common rhythm, a common beat. Even if we are all off beat.
